

Growing Wild Rennie: The Extraordinary Life of a Woman Who Lived in the Alaskan Wilderness

Rennie Sparks was a woman who lived her life on her own terms. She was born in 1943 in a small town in Alaska, and from a young age, she had a deep love for the wilderness. When she was just 16 years old, she left home and began living in the wild, trapping and hunting for food. She spent the next 50 years living in the remote wilderness of Alaska, and she became one of the most respected wilderness experts in the world.

Rennie's life was not easy. She faced many challenges, including harsh weather conditions, dangerous animals, and loneliness. But she never gave up on her dream of living in the wild. She was a skilled trapper and hunter, and she was able to provide for herself in the harsh Alaskan wilderness. She also had a deep love for the animals and plants that she shared her home with, and she was always working to protect the environment.
