

Trip Around Sicily With Nine Mad Artists Cinquesensi.

In the heart of the Mediterranean Sea, Sicily is an island of captivating beauty and rich history, where ancient ruins stand side by side with modern cities, and the scents of orange groves mingle with the salty breeze. It is a land that has inspired artists for centuries, from Caravaggio to Goethe, and continues to do so today.

In 2020, a group of nine artists from the Cinquesensi collective embarked on a journey around Sicily, seeking to capture the island's essence through their unique perspectives. The result is a stunning collection of paintings, sculptures, and installations that celebrate the island's diverse landscapes, people, and culture.

The Artists

The Cinquesensi collective is a group of nine artists from different backgrounds and disciplines. They are united by their shared passion for art and their desire to explore the world through their creative expression. The group includes painters, sculptors, photographers, and installation artists.

Each artist brings their own unique style and perspective to the collective, creating a rich and diverse body of work. Some of the artists in the group have a long history of working together, while others are collaborating for the first time. However, they all share a deep respect for each other's work and a commitment to creating art that is both beautiful and meaningful.

The Journey

The artists' journey around Sicily began in the capital city of Palermo. They spent several days exploring the city's historic center, visiting churches, museums, and palaces. They were particularly drawn to the city's street art, which they found to be vibrant and full of life.

From Palermo, the artists traveled to the ancient city of Agrigento, home to the Valley of the Temples. They were awed by the ruins of these ancient Greek temples, which are some of the best-preserved in the world. They spent several days sketching and painting the temples, trying to capture their grandeur and beauty.

The artists continued their journey to the eastern coast of Sicily, where they visited the cities of Catania and Taormina. Catania is a bustling city with a rich Baroque architecture. Taormina is a picturesque hilltop town with stunning views of the Mediterranean Sea. The artists were inspired by the beauty of both cities and created a number of works that reflect their unique character.

The artists' final stop was the island of Ortigia, which is located just off the coast of Syracuse. Ortigia is a small island with a rich history and culture. The artists were particularly drawn to the island's narrow streets, whitewashed houses, and colorful fishing boats. They spent several days exploring the island and creating a number of works that capture its beauty and charm.

The Exhibition

The works created by the Cinquesensi collective during their journey around Sicily were exhibited at the Palazzo Reale in Palermo in 2021. The exhibition was a great success, attracting visitors from all over the world. The works on display ranged from paintings to sculptures to installations.

Each work was unique, but they all shared a common theme: a love of Sicily. The exhibition was a celebration of the island's beauty, history, and culture, and it left a lasting impression on all who saw it.

The Cinquesensi collective's journey around Sicily was a transformative experience for all involved. The artists were inspired by the island's beauty, history, and culture, and they created a stunning collection of works that reflect their unique perspectives.

The exhibition of these works was a great success, and it left a lasting impression on all who saw it. The Cinquesensi collective's journey is a reminder that art has the power to connect people and to bridge cultures.

It is also a reminder that the world is a beautiful place, full of wonder and inspiration.
