

Trombone Christmas: A Festive Tradition for Four Brass Quartets

A Festive Tradition Born from Humble Beginnings

The story of Trombone Christmas begins in 1974, when a young trombonist named Peter Boonshot was inspired by the Christmas carol "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing." He envisioned a unique performance where multiple trombone quartets would join forces to create a harmonious rendition of the beloved tune. With the support of three friends, Boonshot organized a small ensemble and performed in a church in Buena Park, California.

The Rise of a Phenomenon

Word of Trombone Christmas quickly spread throughout the musical community, and before long, other ensembles began to organize similar events. In 1976, the first official Trombone Christmas concert was held in Los Angeles, featuring 16 trombone quartets and over 60 musicians. The concert was a resounding success, and the tradition continued to grow rapidly.

Today, Trombone Christmas is celebrated in cities around the world, with over 200 annual concerts held in the United States alone. The event has become a beloved holiday tradition for music lovers of all ages, offering a unique and unforgettable way to experience the joy of Christmas through the power of brass.

The Enchanting Repertoire

The repertoire of Trombone Christmas is as varied as it is delightful. Traditional Christmas carols form the core of the program, including classics such as "Joy to the World," "Silent Night," and "Deck the Halls." However, Trombone Christmas also features a wide range of contemporary and lesser-known carols, offering a refreshing and diverse musical experience.

In addition to carols, Trombone Christmas often includes instrumental pieces, such as "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Greensleeves," and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." These pieces showcase the versatility of the trombone and demonstrate the broad range of musical styles that the instrument can encompass.

The Impact of Trombone Christmas

Beyond its musical appeal, Trombone Christmas has had a profound impact on the music community and beyond. The event has fostered a sense of camaraderie among trombonists and has helped to raise the profile of the instrument. It has also inspired countless young musicians to pursue careers in music, and has helped to spread the joy of Christmas to audiences around the globe.

The Power of Music

Trombone Christmas is more than just a concert; it is a testament to the power of music to bring people together and create a sense of community. The event showcases the unique talents of trombonists and provides a platform for musical expression. It is a celebration of the Christmas spirit and a reminder that music has the ability to touch our hearts and souls.
